Bonnie's background is in public accounting and private industry finance in California's Silicon Valley. She worked as division controller and finance director with publicly held start-up companies in chip manufacturing, scientific lasers and networking.

She escaped California and moved to Maine in 1990 where she has been a year-round resident ever since. In 2003 she helped to form The Beacon Project and build Boardman Cottage, and she has served as President and Treasurer of that non-profit organization ever since.

Bonnie could help start-up businesses with budgeting, performance reporting, and various bookkeeping and tracking systems such as QuickBooks and Excel spreadsheets.
